87 British Children Victims of Nazis

Liner Carrying Little Evacuees Torpedoed 600 Miles From Land; First Loss of Children Refugees

One of the most horrifying perpetrations of this ruthless war was the torpedoing of an evacuee ship, carrying 406 persons, by a German submarine, in mid-ocean. The disaster cost the lives of 293 persons of whom 87 were British children seeking refuge in Canada. The 113 survivors were landed at a British port by a warship after withstanding many hours of stormy, hail-battered seas. Many of those in the lifeboats succumbed to exposure.

The boat was torpedoed Sept. 17, but word of the disaster was withheld until another boat, also carrying child refugees arrived safely at Montreal.

This latest atrocity involved the greatest loss of civilian life since the Arandora Star was torpedoed early in July. At that time 800 German and Italian internees and 100 British seamen perished from a German sub. When the Athenia was sunk in Sept. 1939, there were 112 lives lost.

The liner, when torpedoed, was 600 miles from land in a part of the ocean unfrequented by submarines. The explosion occurred at 10 p.m. when the passengers were in bed. The boat sank in less than half an hour. Scores were killed in their beds. Others who got safely into lifeboats, died from exposure. Some were swept off raft and out of lifeboats in the heavy seas.

Whole families of children were lost. Five out of one family, surviving the bombing of their London home, lost their lives. Of 90 children evacuated under the government scheme, many from humble homes, only 7 survived. There were more than sufficient life-

Drive Is Planned To Boost Sale War Savings Certificates

Will Send Out Canvassers
Throughout Vulcan District

Plans have been made by the local war savings committee for a drive to boost the sale of war savings certificates and stamps in the Vulcan district. No special community effort to increase the sale of certificates has been made in this district as yet and there should be a big response when canvassers appointed by the local committee start on their work.

Members of the local War Savings Committee are W. D. Allan, chairman; W. B. Jamison, Dr. G. M. Carson, R. J. Monds, A. Roebuck, Roy Walker, J. T. Willard and L. H. Stack. The committee wishes to impress upon the residents of this district the fact that when they purchase War Savings Certificates they are not giving their money but lending it, at a reasonable return to themselves. That return amounts to a full 25% in 7 1/2 years. All who can should take advantage of this new and useful means of building up a reserve of savings for the future.

For those who wish to make regular monthly purchases of War Savings Certificates the national committee has developed, in collaboration with the chartered banks, a special pledge form which will soon be delivered by mail to every householder in Canada. By using this new War Savings pledge form any bank depositor can instruct his bank to invest in one or more certificates for him on the 15th of every month. Once the pledge is signed and handed to the bank the regular purchase of War Savings Certificates becomes automatic; the purchase price of the certificates is deducted each month from the account, sent by the bank to Ottawa, and the certificates delivered by mail to the depositor's address.

Each and every resident of the Vulcan district should do his bit in Canada's war effort by purchasing War Savings Certificates. Canada needs your help, and this is one way you can "Help Smash Hitler."

Mary Bosanquet At Ottawa On Ride Across Canada

Miss Mary Bosanquet, a young Englishwoman, who left Vancouver by horseback in June, 1939, was in Ottawa on Sept. 18th of this year with her horse "Jonty." From Ottawa she will ride to Montreal. Local residents will remember that Miss Bosanquet stopped in Vulcan last year while on her long ride east. While here she was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Walker.

Interviewed in Ottawa last week, she said that it had been a wonderful trip, adding that the purpose of the marathon on horseback was to gain material for a book. "People right across the country have been so kind that it has often been hard to say goodbye," she said.

Miss Bosanquet landed in Halifax in June, 1939, and went by train to Vancouver, where she bought a horse and headed east. Across the Rockies, she said, was the most exciting part of the trip, and the only time she camped out.

boats, but all circumstances conspired to take the heavy toll.

(In a previous torpedoing of an evacuee ship in August, 320 evacuees—the complete list—were saved).

The children behaved magnificently under their ordeal. All suffered terribly under the ordeal. The captain went down with his ship.

It is understood this will not halt the plans for overseas evacuation of children.

Parents were notified of the harrowing loss by social workers.

British newspapers under the heading of "Murder," charge Hitler directly with this hideous act, which must not be forgotten.

So far 3000 children have been safely evacuated from Britain.

During the days of open bar, the story is told of a Swede who asked for good old Squirrel whiskey. The bartender had not that brand and suggested some "Old Crow." "Oh, Yudas priest," said the cautious Swede, "I don't want to fly, I just want to hop around a little."

Professor Levine, of the geophysics dept., University of Toronto, has been arrested for having Communist literature in his possession. He is believed to be a leader in Communist underground activities. He is 29, graduate of University College of Toronto University with M. A. and Ph. D. He was awarded a fellowship in the physics dept. two years ago.

The Queen and the Soldier

A convalescent soldier's straw sun-hat claims Royal attention, and causes a smile in which everybody joins, as Queen Elizabeth pays one of her frequent visits to British war wounded.

Compulsory Training Scheme Under Way

Although registered letters were mailed from Edmonton last week to young men, 21 years of age, elected for compulsory military training, very few were received by local residents as most of the eligible youths are engaged in farming and their training period will be deferred for a month or so. Men from Vulcan and district taking the compulsory thirty days training will attend the Red Deer training centre.

The initial training period commences Wednesday, October 9, with a total of 30,000 men concentrated in the various training depots across Canada. The men will be housed in huts and will be provided with all but personal necessities. Underwear, sweaters and socks will be provided. Drafts must provide their own soap and shaving material.

In some cases the letters were received by men who have just returned from two weeks of training with N.P. A.M. units, or who are now undergoing a two-week training period. These men have filled training requirements, but must notify registrars of the fact.

Annual Canvass Of Bible Society

(Contributed)

Next week the town of Vulcan will observe its annual canvass for the British and Foreign Bible Society. In addition to the invaluable work the society has done in the past, it is now endeavoring to place a well-bound New Testament in the hands of every one of our soldier boys. Our boys need spiritual preparation as well as physical and we are grateful to the Bible Society for this noble gesture.

Such a project naturally requires funds. As loyal subjects of our beloved British Empire we can do our part by courteously receiving the canvasser and giving as liberally as possible.

The Globe and Mail states that investigation has shown that a number of German prisoners of war in Canada are graduates of a school organized in Germany to teach prisoners how to escape. They were taught lock-picking, tunnelling, etc., in a scientific way. There are at least 20 of these graduates in one Canadian camp.

Grain Commissioners Fail Justify Action On Wheat Grading, Is Farmers' Opinion After Meeting

Farmers Feel They Are Being Discriminated Against by
New Cracked Wheat Ruling

The special meeting held in Vulcan last week by the Board of Grain Commissioners did little to clear up the dissatisfaction caused by the recent ruling that wheat with more than 3% cracked or split kernels will not be graded No. 1. Under the new ruling, farmers whose wheat contains 4 or 5 per cent damaged kernels will suffer a heavy financial loss due to the loss in grade.

Although much of the wheat now being delivered locally is not affected by the damaged kernel ruling, it is the general opinion that the ruling is unfair, inasmuch that the percentage of damaged kernels is no higher than in recent years and the wheat itself this year, even for a district such as Vulcan where high quality grain is taken for granted, is of an exceptionally high standard.

The meeting was held in response to a letter sent recently by the Vulcan Board of Trade protesting to the grain board the new ruling of the Western Grain Committee on statutory grades of wheat with regard to broken and split kernels.

Grain Protection

C. M. Hamilton, wheat commissioner; Dr. J. Anderson, chief chemist, and N. H. Blatchford, assistant grain commissioner, were guest speakers. Mr. Blatchford, in his brief address, advised farmers to read the Canada Grain Act and the protection it affords the grower, which is posted in most elevators.

He remarked that in the event of a farmer not being satisfied with the grade he received on a load, he did not have to accept the buyer's grade, but could demand an interim ticket, and insist on a sample of the grain being sent for government inspection.

High Standard Needed

Dr. Henderson read the amendment to the Canada Grain Act made in 1939, and the rigid stipulations it imposes on No. 1 Northern, which are: "Minimum weight 60 lb.; variety: Marquis or any variety equal to Marquis; 65 per cent of red, hard, vitreous kernels; well matured, practically free from damaged kernels."

Great stress was put on the last qualifications, with the speaker emphasizing that if Western producers hope to keep their high place in the world markets that the quality of standard must be absolutely maintained.

Dr. Anderson explained the difficulty to the miller with regard to processing and milling grain that contained split or broken kernels. He said it was impossible to make a high grade of flour from grain that contained a large proportion of such wheat.

At the conclusion of the speakers' addresses the meeting was thrown open for questioning. While many questions were fired at the speakers, farmers did not feel satisfied with the information furnished, and left the hall still protesting.

Although the speakers tried to explain why the presence of damaged kernels led to a loss in grade, they did not explain why the ruling was not enforced until this year and, aside from the main issue, this point is unfair enough in itself to justify further protest.

Edward Jamison Joins Air Force

W. Edward Jamison, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Jamison of Calgary, and a former instructor at the Institute of Technology and Art, has been commissioned as a flying officer in the Royal Canadian Air Force and will leave for Toronto October 15th.

Born at Vulcan, he moved to Calgary with his parents in 1925, attending school there and, graduating in aeronautics from the Institute of Technology and Art. He later attended the Boeing School of Aeronautics, Oakland, California, and joined the teaching staff of the Calgary institute on his return from the States.

Mushrooms In September

To walk into one's garden on a day in late September and pick sufficient fresh mushrooms for a plentiful meal, sounds like something that could never happen in this part of the country, at least, but that is just what Mrs. C. J. McMillan did last Saturday, Sept. 21.

One generally expects to pick mushrooms only in the warm, moist days of

Local Students At Alberta University

Jack Denbigh On 'Restigouche' Crew

Able Seaman Jack Denbigh of H.M.C.S. Restigouche, spent a few days in Vulcan this week at the home of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Denbigh, and the recounting of some of his experiences has been very interesting to his many friends.

In the navy for fourteen months now, Jack is an Able Seaman with the rating of Anti-aircraft Gunner and his ship, the destroyer Restigouche, has possibly been more active and has certainly received more publicity than any other of Canada's fighting ships. Besides her regular patrol work the Restigouche has seen much convoy work and has taken part in the evacuation of soldiers and civilians from France. She has seen service in many widely scattered parts of the Empire since the war began and has bagged a total of six enemy submarines, more than any other one ship in the British navies.

The Restigouche was the ship instrumental in saving so many of the destroyer Fraser's crew when that ship was accidentally rammed and sunk. Other adventures have been many and Able Seaman Denbigh greatly enjoys his work as a sailor.

Local Red Cross Again Active

The work committee of the Vulcan Red Cross Society wish to announce that those wishing to do sewing for the Red Cross may now do so as material for making pyjamas, hospital gowns, sheets, pillow cases and towels is now available, as well as yarn for knitting.

Thanks is extended to the members of the Catholic Women's League and the ladies of the Church of Christ for the lovely quilts which they donated for refugees. A recent bulletin from Red Cross headquarters announced that new clothing and comforts for refugees is urgently needed.

Graduate nurses of Vulcan and district will meet for work of making surgical dressings on Tuesday afternoon, October 1st, at 2 o'clock in the Legion hall.

The regular monthly meeting of the Vulcan and District Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society will be held on Wednesday evening, October 2, in the Legion hall.

The first Saturday on which the Red Cross second-hand store was open proved quite a successful day. The committee wish to thank all the people who so kindly donated articles for sale and also wish to appeal to others for donations of clothing, household articles, etc. The store, which is in the basement of the Carson block, will be open each Saturday until further notice.

spring and early summer but the warm sunshine on Friday, followed by the light rain that night proved to be the right combination which makes this delicacy pop above the ground, for on Saturday morning Mrs. McMillan walked into the garden and there were several large, perfectly-formed mushrooms and many smaller ones. The mushrooms, incidentally made an enjoyable meal for a member of the Advocate staff.

Watching Taxation

THERE is muttering in the world of cigarette smokers who "roll their own." Every time they pay 10 cts. for a package of Wheat Straw, Chanticleer or other cigarette papers, they ask "how come." The old papers, stamped with a 2 cent tax, sold for 5 cts. The new papers, stamped with a 5 cent tax sell for 10 cts. There is 2 cents boost unexplained.

This is just one inconsequential rise in the cost of living which is being questioned. Perhaps there is some reason why cigarette papers have doubled, but the reason does not appear on the stamp.

Any tax increase opens up the possibility of exploitation of an incurious public. Few people are sure of their ground in the matter of taxes. This, of course, is their own fault, but it does offer great temptation to those who aim to profit by war conditions. The public usually pays what is asked without making any fuss, accepting it all as part of the war cost.

The Vernon News touches on the question of magazine prices, saying, "popular periodicals published in United States are under the 10% exchange tax applicable to anything imported from non-British countries. This tax raises the cost half a cent, but the advance made is 2 cents or more. The government gets half a cent. Who gets the other cent and a half and why?"

The same paper also takes up the question of bread prices. A levy of 15 cts. a bushel is to be placed on wheat processed in Canada. The processing tax is 15 cts. for 60 pounds of wheat, which is one quarter of a cent a pound. In bigger bakeries it takes one pound of flour to make a loaf of bread. The quarter cent tax on a pound of wheat does not justify a cent a pound increase in price.

The government has a board organized for the specific purpose of guarding against profiteering. The public is ready to pay more for goods and articles if the difference goes to the support of the fighting forces. But there is no willingness to add to the private fortunes of individuals or corporations.

There is no suggestion that the retailer from whom essentials or non-essentials are bought, is charging more than he is obliged to. Competitive business takes care of that, and the retailer is showing consideration for his customers as well as conscientiousness, in holding prices as steadily as he has done. But there are manufacturers, wholesalers, distributors, etc., who are not as directly in touch with the public as the retailer, and therefore more likely to take advantage of any increase in prices to add double profit for themselves. There must be no civilian profiteering in this war. This is a charge on the government.

Fate of Little Peoples

IN the debacle of war, attention is so much centred on the arena of conflict in Europe, that little thought is given to the colonies under administration of the Nazi-conquered countries. But the curtain is lifted by W. B. Courtney who tells of the plight of Dutch Guiana in a late issue of Colliers. Dutch Guiana is in a particularly hazardous position, because it is just across the river from Devils Island, St. Laurent and the other French penal colonies which "for generations have been for South America, the only visible example of France's democracy." In this "hell spot," thousands of hunger-maddened convicts lurk restlessly. Their guards are fleeing and the criminals, deserted by their home government, glare covetously across into Dutch Guiana. It is readily accessible, and in the past hundreds of convicts have escaped to the plantations and gold camps. The desperate men of French Guiana look to Dutch Guiana for loot and food.

"There is abundance of loot," says the article. "Few lands are naturally richer. But there is no food in Dutch Guiana, although up till the spring of this year it made enormous offerings to the treasure chest of the Queen of the Netherlands and the bank accounts of absentee speculators. But now in the capital, you see the police ration out handfuls of rice to first comers who can pay for it, and then beat away the bewildered late comers and penniless."

"The convicts of French Guiana are hungry and all communication and supply fell apart with the defeat of France. That is why guards are deserting, and why residents of Dutch Guiana are fearful."

"The powder keg closest to flame in the Americas is the Guianas. French Guiana is a terrifying place, and Dutch Guiana with the fall of the Netherlands, is in fear and want. With the cutting off of subsidies from home, experimental stations and such enterprises have been abandoned. There are no longer official funds for relief; no more white doctors come from Holland to care for the sick. The colonial minister, fleeing to London, told the colony it must shift for itself. Depression has struck all colonial industry. Markets have gone and there are daily riots for a dole of rice. Yet it is a rich land of great possibilities, facing a man-made famine because of the disasters to the motherland."

This is just an extract from the article which presents a horrifying picture of the helplessness of colonies which have never developed independence of action or self-reliance. The collapse of the European nations controlling these colonies has had disastrous results. The fact that some of these colonies are in the western hemisphere, accentuates the potential dangers.

Pertinent Topics

DISCUSSED BY H. C.

Time was when we would scorn to feed wheat to hogs, no matter what the cost. Wheat was the aristocrat of grains. It would be an indignity to waste it on hogs—it would be the same as throwing pearls to them. There never really was any basis for such snobbishness. Wheat had no monopoly as a food for men. We ate or drank barley, a second rate product in the social scale. Oats, according to the first English dictionary, Dr. Samuel Johnson, lexicographer, was a grain fed to Scotsmen and horses. Peas by the same token might have been described as a grain fed whole to hogs or by the soup route to Frenchmen and others.

After many years of gallant but unavailing resistance, wheat had to yield up its respectability to the general economic pressure. Governments had tried for years and are trying still to maintain its social status, but the market refused to be influenced. At times this patrician product was quoted at prices lower than plebeian products like peas and barley, although we still continue to shore it by artificial props it continues to sag and now the plebs have taken the matter in hand, and are feeding it to hogs. They read that the surplus this year in North America alone will be about .00 million bushels which, added to the sizeable surplus of other years, means that it is a drug on a market restricted by blockade. So, wheat will be sold on the hoof at a higher price than on the peg. At any rate the surplus will be reduced so that it will not be such an incubus in future.

Every candidate has probably gone through the same experiences as Wilkie is going through now. The nomination victory is followed by a reaction in which friends join the enemy in criticism. He talks too much or too little; he should not have said this or that; he high-hats the old party leaders and takes advice from nobody, or somebody whose advice is interested or worthless. Wilkie, however, impresses us as acting on his own impulses or judgment. It was that which won him the nomination. It ought to be equally efficacious in his electoral campaign.

It is very annoying to read of the men of Vichi probing into war guilt of former politicians in France, but that is what we will be doing in Canada if we lose this war. It is up to our government to do everything possible to win, because if we lose it will be too bad for those, who, with three years warning, turned down proposals for planes and pilots that if accepted, would have made Germany think twice before running amok.

Some borrowed from the banks so they could take a bit of the second loan, while others with deposits there took none. The first take a loss financially, the second morally and financially.

Complaints are made that lack of sufficient sunshine has deprived peaches of their distinctive coloring. That red gauze on the basket makes up for that deficiency. It always did. That was and is its purpose in life.

The notion that power and might are the main things in life is prevalent among Germans. If Germany can lick the world that proves that Germans are a superior race. But they do not carry the argument into cases. They would not admit for instance that because Joe Louis licked Max Baer, the negro by virtue of his strength and might is necessarily a superior person.

It is absurd as it is impudent for Germans to think themselves superior to any people they have subjugated. If their soldiers have any thinking apparatus still functioning they must have marvelled at what they saw in Norway, Holland and Denmark as well as Belgium and France. They, searching for living space, found thickly populated countries, their people engaged in various occupations, industrious, thrifty, prosperous and envying none other. Are they as well off now under German domination? Will they ever be as prosperous and contented under the vaunted efficiency of the master race. The answer is no. If they conquer the whole world, the Germans will be no better off either. They certainly will not be more contented.

The Nazis made persistent attempts to kill or kidnap the Queen of Holland and the King of Norway, so the attempts on the King and Queen of Britain need cause no wonderment. The Nazi-Fascist system of government and war is fashioned on gangster-racketeer methods pursued by German and Italian gang leaders in American cities. This has been said many times before, but unless we keep it in mind we shall not understand what is behind axis actions.

Despite official denials, the report persists in occupied countries that the Germans several weeks ago, made a descent upon Britain. If so, Britain is the only country to be invaded without her knowing a thing about it. The inference must be that the superior race is slipping, unless this is the surprise they had in store—to invade Britain "unbeknownst" to her. Maybe, however, the mistake arose through indifferent knowledge of the English language, and that the report was not that the Germans invaded Britain but that they inveighed against her.

The fact that the Germans minimize their air losses and magnify the British losses, shows they dare not tell their people the truth. To make a good showing they practically reverse the correct figures. That they will not allow their people to listen to any but Nazi figures indicates fear that the correct figures may disturb domestic morale, but certain facts can not be suppressed. The Germans know that the war was not over on Aug. 15th; they know that Goering lied to them when he said they were safe from British bombers; and they are learning now that they will have to winter through war, with all that that means.

The main fact is that they dare not tell the truth. That fact is tremendously important. It throws a lurid light on German mentality. It shows that Nazi leaders do not trust too much in German endurance. They recognize that their people will fight and endure so long as the promise of victory hold out, but will collapse as they did in 1918 when they discover that they may lose. There is no new lesson or moral in this. Bullies always were and always will be cowards.

Correspondence Re Truck Driving

Sec'y Alta. Motor Transport Ass'n Gives Truck Drivers' Case

(From The High River Times)
The Times has received a letter from Jack Taylor, secretary of the Alberta Motor Transport Association, in reference to a recent editorial: "Inexcusable Road Hazards." While commending this paper for its effort in trying to make highways safer for the public, the letter courteously disputes the editorial in "representing truck operators as the most irresponsible elements on the roads."

The Times may have condemned the truck trade too sweepingly, placing all in the same category in "spreading terrorism," etc. There is no question that large motor transport companies must maintain strict standards in the competence of their drivers. Reliability of drivers is an important business asset, and this standard would include a minimum of involvement in accidents, reasonable hours of labor, etc. But unfortunately not all drivers of trucks are under the strict requirements of these large bus and truck companies. There are a great variety of trucks on the highways—and this includes farm trucks—whose drivers are responsible only to themselves. They are indifferent to traffic courtesies; they may be overworked, and because their vehicles are big and powerful, they loom up as more fearsome than the equally careless car driver.

However, this space is intended for Mr. Taylor, whose statements on behalf of the Alberta Motor Transport Association are impressive, and deserve full reader attention.

Mr. Taylor says: "We find that we cannot agree with your statements representing truck operators as being the most irresponsible element on our roads. Quite the contrary!"

"Captioned, 'Lesson for Motorist-Truckers Safest,' the Alberta Motor Association in the enclosed statement, has this to say in the Calgary Herald, August 6th:

"Safe driving habits of truckers should serve as a lesson to the private car owner, according to a statement released by Alberta Motor Association officials here.

"The fact," says the statement, "that the fatal accident rates for trucks per 10,000 vehicles registered has dropped 29 per cent. during the past twelve months, while the passenger car rate of accidents has increased 18 per cent, indicates pleasure drivers or private users can take a lesson from the heretofore much criticized truck driver."

"The truck driver makes safety a matter of business. He studies all the angles of driving and has created a system of defensive tactics against unsafe practices of the other fellow." "Naturally," continues Mr. Taylor, "such a statement, from others than ourselves, is highly gratifying to the truck transport men in Alberta."

"Many factors enter into the matter of safe driving. The major conditions, of course, are provincial regulations governing operation, topography and the condition of the roads to travel.

"From the Canadian Motorists' hand-book, published in Ontario, the position of Alberta in regard to safe-driving is as indicated on page 48 of the enclosed booklet, third among the provinces for '35 and '36—and down to 2nd place for '37, '38 and '39 with Saskatchewan—practically 100% of the province in leading place, and mountainous B.C. in 5th or 4th place during the same period."

"Safe driving is highly desirable to Alberta's truck operators. Accidents may cost him life or limb, may involve him in costly litigation; certainly their ratio determines his insurance rates. With everything to win from safe driving practise he would be a strange human indeed, if he did not strive toward such practise."

"That truck owner operators, through their Association, have given no little thought toward safety regulations is indicated in the letter appearing in the Voice of Transportation from Mr. W. T. Aiken, Secretary, Highway Traffic Board, Edmonton, copy of which we enclose. 'The attitude of the executive toward the enforcement of safety regulations have been particularly gratifying, and the educational work which they have carried out through their various meetings throughout the province, and through the columns of your valuable paper is unquestionably having a beneficial effect in helping to raise the standard of the industry in this province.'"

"Naturally, our industry suffers from the irresponsibility of a few individuals; what industry does not?"

"However, from the foregoing, we find our province the second safest province in the Dominion for driving over, and the truckers of the province considered the safest of those who

Items From Bob Edwards' Inimitable Eye Opener

Bob Edwards launches into verse; In 1906 issue sends open letter to Premier Rutherford of Alberta directing his steps; Card sharps and crooks

Ode To a Dollar
Thou Plunk!
Epitome of empire; seedling state!
Symbol sovereignty; mammon incarnate,
Thou creature by man made and yet grown greater
By his ineptitude than thy creator.
Thou Demon, summoned from the vasty deep,
Would in the womb of time thou still didn't sleep!
Within thy compass bides the magic power
To make man king of men for his brief hour.
To win friendship or love's counterfeit;
Inspire song or story; need of wit.
Thou buyest the laurel or the golden crown,
And elevatest the low; the great east down.
Man sells for thee his honor and good name,
And for thy want do women sink to shame.
Thou idol of a blind, misguided race
Fake God, usurping great Jehovah's rightful place.
Thou art the cheap delusion of all time.
Not worth in truth the tribute of this rhyme.

Typhoid — Gambling
There are two extraordinary circumstances in Calgary's conglomeration that have always puzzled us. One is that when hospitals are full to overflowing with typhoid patients, the health officers and many of the doctors will tell you that "the city was never so free from typhoid as now."

The other is that when a lot of suckers have been roped in by a gang of con men and card sharps, and have duly lodged complaints at the police station, the police themselves will tell you that there is no gambling here at all, never was and never will be.

As for this roping in of visitors to Calgary by a group of crooks, we have known of its existence for at least two months. Room One in the Royal Hotel was the scene of operations for awhile and the same gang is still at work. They have not only been working the C and E train to their heart's content for the past two months, but have also paid visits to the little burg's along the line, posing as land buyers. They got $910 out of Innisfail. If the police see fit to give protection to swindlers, it is not our funeral, but Calgary's misfortune. If the chief of police had expended as much wrath over the crooks and their work as he has done over the newspaper men for publishing the news, it would at least have looked better. The newspapers can keep this city fairly straight if the police can't or won't. The essence of a newspaperman's business is observation, and it is usually fatal for anyone in public office to overlook this fact.

Open Letter to Premier Rutherford
On Premier Rutherford's election as head of the Alberta Liberal government in 1906, the Eye Opener wrote an open letter to him, extracts being as follows:

Dear Sir:
Now that your government has received the complete endorsement of the people, it is to be hoped that no sneers from disgruntled partisans will be allowed to disturb the even tenor of your way. The lone Hiebert sitting in taciturn isolation in the Opposition benches won't bother you. In fact the one and only member of the Opposition will, perhaps, endeavor himself to the House, by rising to his feet and inviting your 24 stalwarts out for a drink. In which event, it will show he has no immediate intention of overthrowing your government.

"Far from being saddened at the defeat of the Conservatives, I am glad of it for their own sake. It may do them good. While their defeat in the province was inevitable, the particular defeat in Calgary was due to the fact that the little bunch of Conservatives who constitute "the push," meekly consented to follow the tactless diatribe of an unpopular man. Almost any old thing in human form labelled Conservative could have won the Calgary seat, but they had to select Bennett. Or rather he selected himself. Bennett could have won in High River, but no, he had to pose in the limelight of Calgary where he was not wanted. I just tell you this to let you know that Calgary is still Conservative.

"It seems to me that our Conservative leaders, not only lack sense themselves, but believe that the rank and file are similarly lacking. They pretend to believe that every proposition emanating from a Liberal must be rotten. But many of them know that some of the Liberal proposals are very good, and anyone else with sense knows it. It is becoming more and more difficult every year to fool the public.

"Had Frank Oliver introduced a clause in the School bill, prohibiting the eating of peanuts in the school, the Conservative spellbinders would have made the welkin ring over such an invasion of the inalienable rights of the schoolchildren of this great and glorious country. They would spread alarm through the country lest the stamina of the rising generation be warped through prohibition of peanuts. This wool-gathering spirit of habitual opposition make me tired.

"It will be a sign of progress when a member of one of the great parties dare raise his voice in commendation of the act of the other party, without being branded as traitor.

"I hope your party, overwhelmingly elected and entrenched, will furnish intelligent criticism of measures brought down. Let it be known that you welcome critical discussion amongst your own. The history of overstrong governments is that they get morally careless and independent. Keep 'em down Ruthy, keep 'em down. One suggestion I should like to make—that you write James J. Hill extending a cordial invitation to him to come to Alberta with his competing lines as soon as he feels like it. Be bold and initiative, and don't give a damn for the grocery man.

"Demonstrate your courage further, by allowing a calm revision of the distribution of seats. Do this and all the prejudice of central and southern Alberta against your government will disappear. You know the incongruity of giving the hundred odd white along Lesser Slave Lake the same representation as Calgary with its 13,000 souls. If the Peace River district forms a basis of required population then Calgary should have 20 members in the house. The distribution is terribly unfair and you Edmonton folk know it. You dare

Men Escaped From Kananaskis Camp

Broadcasts on Sunday notified the public that two interned men from Kananaskis camp had escaped. The public was warned to keep close lookout. One man is 20 years of age, height 5 feet 9 inches, weight 188 pounds, fair complexion, red hair; scar on right wrist, speaks good English. His name is Hartmann and he has relatives in Saskatchewan.

The second escapee, named Schoenberg, is 34, height 5 feet 10½ in., weight 180 pounds, three small scars on left side of face, ruddy complexion. Both men were in prisoner-of-war uniform of white cotton pants, blue denim jacket with red circle on back and blue ski cap.

Hartman was on cookhouse fatigue, last seen at noon Sunday and missing at 6 o'clock roll call. He is believed to have escaped during the heavy rain. The second prisoner was reported missing at morning roll call, but may have got away at the same time.

Both prisoners were recently transferred from eastern camps. Schoenberg is from Toronto.

Newfoundland Kind To Canadian Troops

Canadian troops in Newfoundland are ready to serve notice on Adolf Hitler anytime, Marsh D. Peters, supervisor of Canadian Legion War Services here, said in an interview this week. He expressed the conviction that the health of the men is superlative and that their morale and fighting spirit are at the keenest pitch.

The hospitality of Newfoundlanders is amazing, he said, and told of the people of one town who, without charge, housed and fed a large contingent of men during a week-end leave. Officers and men alike have never seen or heard of such kindness anywhere else in the world, he stated.

Hundreds of thousands of sheets of free writing paper and envelopes, daily newspapers, magazines; balls, bats and games; free cigarettes, as well as comforts to those in hospitals are distributed regularly by the Legion in to the troops; he said. In addition, the Legion presents weekly pictures with sound, organizes sing-songs and concerts, and arranges and supervises baseball games among the various units. He added that the Legion's education scheme, whereby the men could take up or continue studies to prepare themselves for their return to civil life, and at the same time to improve their military efficiency will be instituted this fall. A Legion education officer is expected to arrive at Newfoundland within the next few weeks to get the program under way.

Scarcity Grasshopper Bait; Dept. Urges Cultivation

Scarcity of Hopper Bait
Forecast for Next Year; Fall
Cultivation Will Help

Grasshopper poisoning, when necessary next year may have to be confined to crops or summerfallow or properly cultivated stubble. The provincial department of agriculture warns farmers to refrain from cropping land in 1941 that has not been summerfallowed in 1940. However, if land used this year is urgently needed, farmers are advised to shallow-cultivate all stubble fields as soon as the crop is harvested. Farmers in grasshopper infested districts are advised that there are two classes of the pests. One class is those that lay eggs in headlands, roadsides and other grassy locations and are fairly easy to destroy. The other class is those that lay eggs in grain and stubble fields during and after the harvest.

The first class attack grain fields from the outside and can be poisoned on their breeding grounds.

The eggs of the second class, laid in great numbers over an entire field, hatch out in the spring and the young hoppers destroy the entire crop before effective control measures can be applied.

It is almost impossible to save a crop so infested. The hoppers may be destroyed by poisoning but the crop is usually lost. If they are not poisoned they may migrate to adjacent fields and continue their destruction.

There is a method of shallow cultivation to a depth of not more than two inches, exposing the eggs so the sun and wind may dry them out. Care must be taken that the depth of cultivation is shallow so that the eggs are not recovered with soil or trash.

It is the belief of the field crops branch that if land is not cropped two years in a row, except in cases of extreme necessity, and then only after careful cultivation, the grasshopper damage will be halted.

Nazi School For Youth of Canada

Article in Maclean's Exposes
Scope of Nazi and Fascist
Propaganda

An article in Maclean's Magazine gives a startling revelation of the scope and activity of Nazi and Fascist propaganda among Canadian youth during the years prior to the war. According to the writer, Roy Davis, both the German and Italian Governments had a well organized educational system in Canadian cities, designed to secure and retain for Hitler and Mussolini the loyalty and support of Canadian citizens of German and Italian lineage. Cloaked under the ostensible purpose of teaching the youth the languages of their parents or grandparents, the classes were in exact centres for inculcating Nazi and Fascist philosophies. Both the instruction and the text books were provided by the governments of Berlin and Rome, and the work was supervised by the consuls of the two countries, and by officials sent to Canada for the purpose. It will surprise most people to learn that it was among Italians that this propaganda programme was carried out on the greater scale.

We are told that Fascist schools were established in scores of communities from Vancouver to Halifax, including such cities as North Bay, Timmins, Sault Ste. Marie, Sudbury and St. Catharines. To add to the impression selected Italian youths, 500 of them in as many years, were taken to Italy as the guests of Mussolini, to meet Italian Fascist youth leaders in summer camps, and to imbibe the principles of Fascism in order that they might return to Canada, and impregnate their compatriots in this country. The whole object was to provide Hitler and Mussolini with Fifth Column within the borders of the Dominion when the day of trial came.

ion when the day of trial came.

All this was going on under our very noses, without the Canadian public being conscious of the subversive activities of the two dictators. We heard much of Communist propaganda, but little or nothing of what the German and Italian governments were up to. Doubtless the Royal Mounted Police were aware of the schools, and had extensive dossiers dealing with them; but there was no law to invoke against this attack on Canadian unity by foreign powers. This is a weakness in our defences that should be remedied for the future. Such attempts to divert the loyalty of Canadian citizens from the country that has given them a home and opportunities for earning a living is an abuse of democratic freedom that cannot be tolerated. Chief Provisions Re All Firearms

Once Again The Main Regulations
Regarding Firearms,
Ammunition and Explosives

Here are the chief requirements which must be observed in respect to firearms and explosives:

1. The possession of firearms, ammunition or explosives is forbidden to the following:

(a) Aliens.
(b) Enemy Aliens (i.e. Germans or Italians who have not become naturalized British subjects).

(c) Persons who have become naturalized British subjects since Sept. 1st, 1922, and at the time of their naturalization were nationals of the German Reich, or any country or territory which on the third day of September, 1939, was under the sovereignty or control of the German Reich; or, in their application for naturalization, were nationals of Italy, or of any country or territory which, on the tenth day of June, 1940, was under the sovereignty or control of Italy; or in their applications for naturalization, described their nationality as Italian.

NOTE—Aliens may apply to the Commissioner of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Ottawa, for a permit to possess firearms and ammunition for certain special purposes. Their applications have to be recommended by a member of a city or Provincial Police Force, or of the R.C.M.P. If an alien receives a permit from the Commissioner of the R.C.M.P. to possess firearms, such permit will entitle him to purchase and possess ammunition.

Enemy Aliens and persons mentioned in para. (c) above, cannot, under any circumstances, be allowed to purchase or possess firearms, ammunition or explosives.

2. All firearms, irrespective of their owner's nationality, must be registered. Particulars of registration have been broadcast and published in the press. If any further information is required, the same can be obtained from the nearest member of the R.C.M. Police.

3. Firearms cannot be loaned, bought, bartered or sold, unless a permit has been obtained from the R.C.M. Police.

4. After September 20th, 1940, explosives can only be sold by licensed magazines.

5. Persons who wish to use explosives can do so only if they have received a permit. Permits can be obtained from members of the R.C.M. Police.

Sees Great Need of Packing Plant

(From Lethbridge Herald)

The Herald has on many occasions urged that one of the secondary manufacturing plants needed, and warranted, to give South Alberta farmers a better break in marketing is a meat packing plant. Today, more than ever before, such a plant is needed, and the city and Board of Trade should concentrate in an effort to secure its establishment.

The special reason for urging the development of a meat processing plant here at the present time is the change announced in hog grading to go into effect across Canada on September 30. Universal rail grading, which is done only in the packing plants by Government graders, will on that date replace the live grading at stock yards. Most hogs from Southern Alberta which are not processed in Calgary where the nearest packing plants are located, go to Edmonton, Moose Jaw, Vancouver or even further points far beyond any immediate knowledge of the hog producers of this section. This is not very satisfactory to the producers.

As the Herald said the other day, rail grading of hogs in the packing plants is unpopular with farmers in South Alberta not because they think rail grading is wrong, but because the machinery at present set up is so far removed from them that they feel that they are left in the dark, taking what someone they don't know and never see says their product is worth. A packing plant in Lethbridge large enough to process the hogs produced in this part of Southern Alberta would remove much of that objection.

Another reason for such a plant is that, at the present time, hog producers are mulcted about half a cent a pound live weight for freight, insurance and the like on the basis of Calgary prices. That amounts to one dollar a hog—a disadvantage under which the South Alberta producer labors, and has labored ever since they began growing hogs for market. That's a heavy handicap.

To give our producers in this part of the province "a break" a packing plant should be established in Lethbridge. This large irrigation area is one of the best livestock producing sections of Canada. We should have a meat processing plant, and the whole community, farmers and businessmen in co-operation, should never rest until such a plant is established.
